What do you imagine when you hear San Francisco?

“If you’re going to San Francisco,
Be sure to wear some flowers in your hair” by Scott McKenzie

- Fisherman’s Wharf
- Alcatraz
- Cable Car
- Nob Hill

San Francisco

- financial and cultural centre of Northern California
- located on the west coast at the north end of San Francisco Peninsula creating San Francisco Bay

Golden Gate Bridge

- Golden Gate – the opening of the SF Bay into the Pacific Ocean
- apparently the most photographed bridge in the world
- until 1964 the longest suspension bridge in the world (1280m)
- until 1998 the tallest suspension towers above water (227m)

Fisherman's Wharf

- popular tourist destination and location of many famous places like Wax Museum, Aquarium, shopping centres and other tourist attractions
- located on the north coast of San Francisco Peninsula

Nob Hill

- rich district, “nob” is slang for upper-class
- location of expensive hotels, Cable Car Barn, Grace Cathedral – a replica of Notre Dame in Paris, or Huntington Park with replica of a 16th century Roman fountain

San Francisco Cable Car system

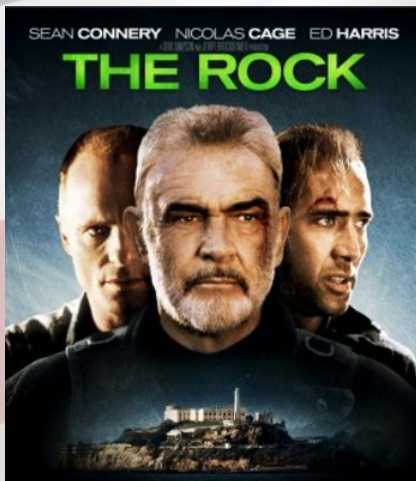

- the world's last manually operated cable car system
- used by commuters, but most passengers are tourists
- consists of three lines and serves about 7mil. people a year

Alcatraz

- small island about 2.4km offshore, often called “The Rock”
- served as a lighthouse, military fort, military prison and federal prison, now it is open to tourists

- as a federal prison it held the worst criminals but in 29 years nobody successfully escaped (although 36 of them tried)

Is San Francisco flat?

NO!

- Except Nob Hill there are more than 50 hills, e.g. Russian Hill is most famous for Lombard Street

Note: In some cases American English is used to preserve terminology and some other aspects
