

INVESTICE DO ROZVOJE VZDĚLÁVÁNÍ

If-clauses. Health.

Tematická oblast	Slovní zásoba a gramatika
Datum vytvoření	10. 8. 2013
Ročník	2.-4. ročník, sexta-oktáva
Stručný obsah	Opakování a procvičování slovní zásoby zaměřené na téma zdraví a gramatiky učebnice Maturita Solutions, 4. lekce
Způsob využití	Materiál je možno využít pro opakování nulového, 1. a 2. kondicionálu – výklad + cvičení (písemně, ústně)
Autor	Mgr. Dana Mynářová
Kód	VY_32_INOVACE_04_AMYN15

We use

- Zero conditional

- to talk about a result which follows an action

- If you have a headache, the doctor prescribes you some painkillers.*

(present simple is used both in the if- clause and the result clause)

- First Conditional

- to predict a result of a future action

If you don't stop eating so much, you'll get fat.

If he's sleepy during the day, he might not sleep at night.

(present simple in the if-clause, will/might in the result clause)

- Second Conditional

- to talk about unreal situations in the present or future

I would go to the doctor's, if my cold got worse.

If I were you, I would see a specialist.

(past simple in the if clause, would + base form in the result clause)

Complete the text with the correct form of verb in the brackets:

More and more people(try) alternative medicine if conventional medicine(not help).

If your blood pressure(be) high, you ... (have) a stroke.

If you (recognise) any warning signs, (not let) the problems get any worse.

If he (not floss), he(get) gum disease.

Answer key

More and more people try alternative medicine if conventional medicine doesn't help.

If your blood pressure is high, you might have a stroke.

If you recognise any warning signs, don't let the problems get any worse.

If he doesn't floss, he might get gum disease.

Work in pairs or groups. Discuss what happens, will or would happen if....

- Write down sentences (affirmative or interrogative) connected with health about what happens, will or would happen if....
- Work in pairs or groups. Discuss your ideas and express your agreement or disagreement.

e.g. What would you do if you injured yourself?

Zdroje

Archiv autorky

Poděkování: M. + M. Polasek, Wasaga Beach,
Canada