

INVESTICE DO ROZVOJE VZDĚLÁVÁNÍ

TRANSPORT, SERVICES

Tematická oblast	The Czech Republic
Datum vytvoření	9. 6. 2013
Ročník	2. ročník, sexta
Stručný obsah	Pomocí mapy se procvičují probrané geomorfologické celky České republiky a geologický vývoj
Způsob využití	Opakování po probrání učiva; upevnění učiva
Autor	Mgr. Jiřina Juříčková
Kód	VY_32_INOVACE_06_AJUR18

TRANSPORT

- Name the main types of transport
- What are the two main types of transportation that prevails in the Czech Republic?
- What is typical for the transport network in the CR?

TRANSPORT

- Road transport, railway t., air t., pipelines, telecommunication
- Road and railway transport predominate in the CR as they transport 98% of goods and 99% of commuters and create the base of the Czech transport.
- The transport network is dense, unequally distributed, old and needs improvement.

RAILWAY TRANSPORT

RAILWAY TRANSPORT

- What is marked in the previous map?
- Are they important? Why?
- Why are they built?

- They are international railway corridors leading through the CR.
- They are important international transport connections.
- They are built as fast transport corridors and improve the transport situation of the Czech Republic.

SERVICES

- What do you know about tertiary industry?
- Explain “low order”, “medium order”, “high order” services
- Give a few examples of “low order”, “medium order”, “high order” services

SERVICES

- “low order” services are found in almost all types of settlements except of single buildings and hamlets (corner shop, primary school, bus stop)
- “medium order” services are found in larger settlements (shoe shop, hairdresser, secondary school, hospital)
- “high order” services are found in the largest cities (university, furniture shop, airport)

